Aim and Scope: The aim of the Journal Acta Tecnología (AT) is to provide academic platform in the fields of industry technologies, education, science and research which are available to the general public and those interested in technologies, including students, academics as well as industry experts. The papers offer imaginative and creative solutions to specific technological problems. The aim of the magazine is promoting and providing young scientists and educators with the opportunity to publish original research in order to create future professionals in this field and to act as the driving force of the economy and society.

The output and establishment of the magazine are a direct consequence of the requirements of the European market for a specialized non-business magazine. Acta Tecnología (AT) – International Scientific Journal about Technologies is one of the few non-trade journals focused on technologies, not only in Central Europe. The editors intend to attract not only experts in the field but also anyone wishing to expand their knowledge of technology, research, education and pedagogy in this area.

The journal focuses mainly on original, interesting, new and quality, theoretical, practical and application-oriented contributions to the scientific fields and research as well as to pedagogy and training in technology.

Acta Tecnología scientific journal focuses mainly on those industries that have an impact on technologies or are part of technologies (and not just about them):
